

St Anne's Church Baslow

Tablets on the walls inside the church

And including the War Memorial

by

David Dalrymple-Smith

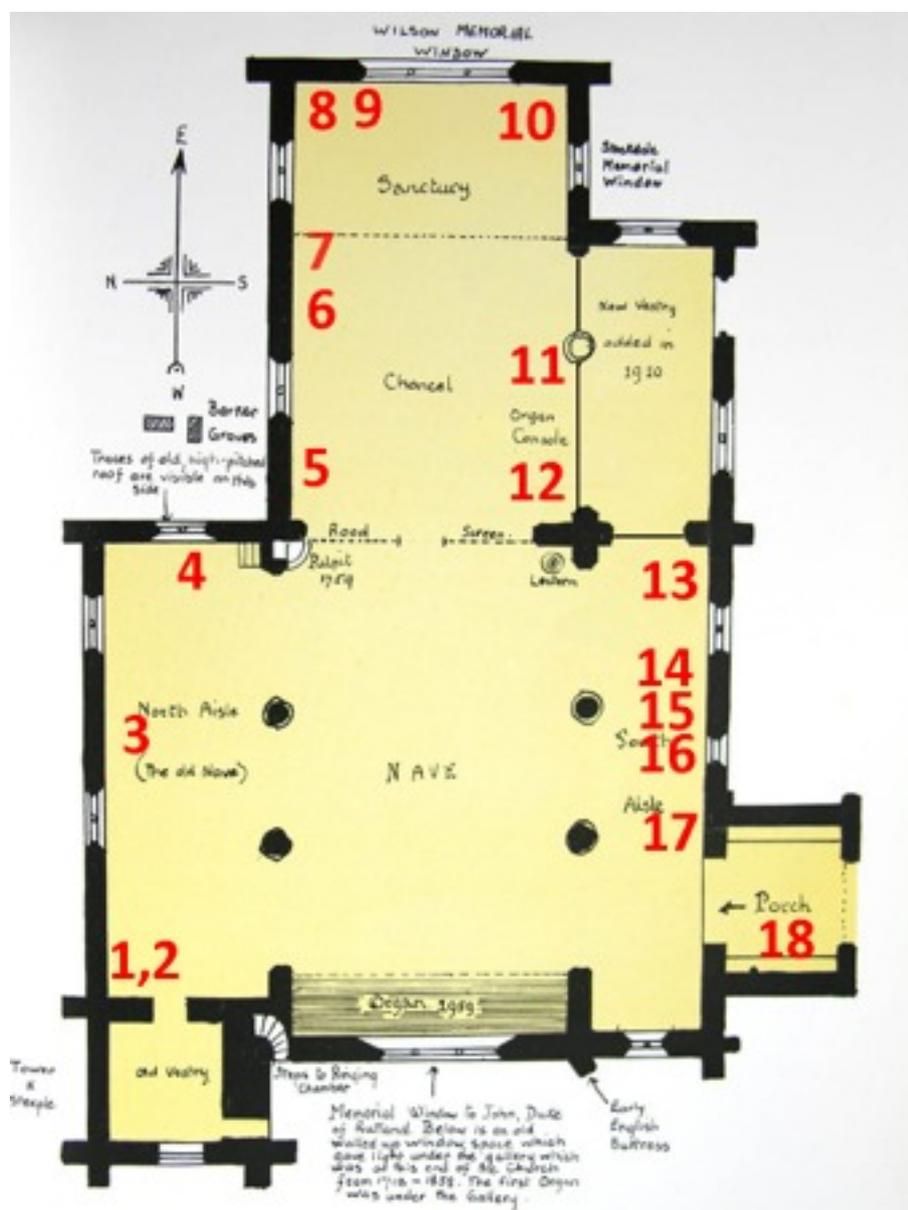

This pamphlet records all the plaques, or hanging tablets, in Baslow Church. I have photographed them and, as they can be difficult to read, have added a copy of the text. The brief description comes from a survey of the church furnishings made in 1990 by The National Association of Decorative and Fine Arts Societies (NADFAS) and kindly provided by the Parochial Church Council.

Many are centuries old and add to our knowledge of the village. Using additional resources, I have tried to bring them to life by adding a little background and interest to each of them.

I have included the war memorial in the churchyard, listing the names inscribed on it.

PLAN OF CHURCH

This diagram was drawn in the 1930s by Mr C R Allsop, then headmaster of St Anne's School.

The numbers in red refer to the plaques described in the text below

Charles Cook Schulsit

This first plaque is immediately opposite the main door of the church. It is beautifully written, but the poor light and flowery calligraphy makes it very difficult to read.

The transcript reveals the thoughts and anguish of a family grieving over the loss of a son. Their house cannot be identified with confidence, but could well have been a predecessor of "Avant Garde" just across the main road from the lych-gate entrance to the churchyard and opposite the Rutland Arms.

The family can be recognised from the parish records of births, marriages and deaths, which also state the fact that John was killed in an accident. The maiden name of the grandmother Helen was Dobb, and she came from Bubnell.

The mere fact that the accident was recorded on an expensive plaque in church suggests a caring family, relatively well off and likely to have been prominent in the community.

Judging by the English, the poem may have been written by the family themselves. Interestingly, the grandmother Helen had her name added at the end – perhaps a matriarch who may also have paid for the memorial.

Charles Cook Schulsit was either the man who engraved the tablet or alternatively wrote the text.

The Marple(s) Family

The first record of the Marple in Baslow was 1591 when Robert son of George was christened. The family thrived, becoming one of the commonest names in the village second only to the Marsdens. Many were craftsmen, tailors, blacksmiths, cordwainers (shoemakers) and the like. Others were publicans and farmers.

02 Elizabeth Marple

In Affectionate Remembrance of Elizabeth (Calton) Marple, to whom under God I owe inestimable blessings.
who died Jan 6th 1821, Aged 71 Years.
And of her first born my Father, George Marple.
who died Nov 3rd, 1846, Aged 78 Years.
And of my Mother, Margaret (Orr) Marple,
Of Litton, who died June 3rd, 1799, Aged 26 Years.
this Tablet is affixed in the Church near which their remains repose, by the first born of my parents,
David Marples, of Liverpool.
May 18th 1876

This branch of the Marples family were farmers at Nether End. As David was only three when his mother died, he may have been brought up by his grandmother.

An earlier branch of the family had moved to Sheffield, and had become established in manufacturing there. George joined them and became a member of the Guild of Skinners (leather crafted onto the handles of cutlery). The Marples firm, under a different name, is still in business in Sheffield today.

The farm, which was near the Golden Gates entrance to Chatsworth, was sold to the Duke of Devonshire when he extended the Park in 1824. George maintained his other house in School Lane until his death in 1846.

03 Thomas Gardom

*"If we be dead with Christ, we shall

Yeld Farm at Far End in Baslow was the family home of the Gardoms, farmed by them from the early 1600s to the 1920s. A younger brother of the farmer at the time married in 1709 Elizabeth Broomhead of Bubnell and established a branch of the family in Bubnell Hall.

Thomas Gardom was the eldest son of John Gardom of Bubnell Hall who built Calver Mill in the 1780s. He moved across the valley to Cliff House in Curbar when he married. After he had died and his family had left the area, the house was bequeathed to the Methodists to become today's Cliff College.

for the use of the Poorer Inhabitants of this Parish for ever; such Seats

There has been a church in Baslow – originally a chapel - since the late 1200s. The oldest part of the present building is the tower and the north aisle which was probably the original the knave. Within 100 years, it had been extended with the addition of the present south aisle and nave.

There have been regular restorations and additions since then, notably in 1853/4 when the chancel was rebuilt, and a further restoration in 1894. The chancel roof was repaired and the present vestry added in 1911.

There were few seats in early churches. Over the years parishioners built their own, which could then be inherited or sold. A churchwardens notebook dated 1800 records 400 seats; about two thirds were owned by the Duke of Rutland (the Lord of the Manor) and allocated to his tenants, the rest were in private hands.

The abolition of private seating was noted in the parish records dated 1853

Baslow was originally a chapelry in the parish of Bakewell, and included the hamlets of Bubnell, Curbar and Froggatt. In 1869, Baslow and Bubnell became a full parish in its own right and a church was built in Curbar for the new parish of Curbar and Froggatt.

Who died March 10th 1784
Aged 27 years

*The pale consumption gave the silent blow,
The stroke was fatal, but the effect came slow;
With pain and sickness wasted to the bone,
Long time to gracious heav'n she made her moan,
Till God at length to her complaint gave ear,
And sent kind death to ease her grief and care,
With pain and grief, death found her sore
opprest
Pitied her sighs, and kindly gave her rest.*

Also of
JOHN their son
Who died Dec 30th 1790;
Aged 31 years

This could not be put better today. The pain and distress of a terminal illness can be terrifying to patient and relatives alike. Modern treatments can help but the underlying fear and suffering remain the same. Read the poem carefully and one really feels for the family

George Grundy arrived in Baslow in the mid 1600s. The 1672 hearth tax records that he had 4 hearths, more than anyone else in Baslow, so he and the family must have had substantial assets.

06 Elizabeth Gardom

*White marble tablet on a veined marble border, resting on a narrow shelf.
The lettering is Roman.
Ht 134cm w 65cm*

Elizabeth
Wife of George Gardom,
of Bubnell gent.
And Daughter of
The Rev. Robert Barker A.M.
Rector of St. Ann's Manchester;
Who died January 27. 1797;
Aged 27 years.
A woman of uncommon mental endowments,
And exemplary in every relation in life.

The Gardoms of Bubnell were a wealthy family with interests in the cotton industry. George's father built Calver Mill. George himself was a younger son, but his social status allowed him to call himself "Gent", and to marry Elizabeth, daughter of the prominent rector of the main church in a vibrant industrial Manchester.

JOHN SHELDON
1906-1977
Headmaster of St. Anne's School, Secretary of the Parochial Church Council, Chorister
and Parish Councillor.
He served Baslow well

John Sheldon, known as Jack, was born in Baslow and lived in the same house up Bar Road all his life. At school he stayed on as a pupil teacher before going to Chester College for his teacher training. After a short spell in Bakewell, he returned to Baslow as head master where he served until his retirement in 1967. He was a man of many talents and interests, one of which was the history of the village.

He is remembered today by the hundreds of pupils who learned from him, and for his book on The History of Baslow, which was published after his death by Dr W M Evans.

Born at Baslow, 3rd April 1802, Died at Lyons, 7th June 1872

"My soul waiteth upon God." Ps. Ixii. 1

John Barker was the first to be titled an incumbent rather than a curate. He was well educated with a university degree. During his time the vicarage was rebuilt (1797) with money was raised by public subscription to which he contributed £50.

Three of his sons are noted. His eldest, Auriol succeeded him on his death and presided over a major restoration of the church, which was barely completed before his sudden death in 1854. His second son Frederick had been Incumbent in Liverpool before taking over here in Baslow in 1855. After a few months he left to become the distinguished Bishop then Metropolitan Bishop of Melbourne Australia. A third son Arundel reached a senior rank in the army

Ministers with memorials in church

It is a tradition for the names of ministers to be recorded for posterity in their churches. Little more is known (to me) about most of them. There are memorials to the following. The initial figure is the date of inauguration.

1747 John Swift (1705-1766)	1824 Auriol Barker (1799-1893)
1767 John Farrer (1732-1794)	1854 Frederick Barker (1810-1907)
1794 John Barker (1762-1824)	1859 Jeremiah Stockdale (1829-1907)

The plaque for the Barkers and Stockdale are in the sanctuary, while those of Farrer and Swift can be seen with difficulty high on the south wall of the Chancel.

Rural Dean of Eyam.
Born Oct 21st 1829
Died Oct 24th 1907

—————
This tablet has been erected by Loving Friends and Parishioners.

Jeremiah Stockdale was a vicar with an outstanding personality just remembered by older villagers when I came to the village in 1966. He was appointed in 1859; he oversaw the division of the old Baslow chapelry to two full parishes in 1869 when Curbar church was built, and supervised a restoration of the church in 1894. Despite a stern exterior, he must have had a stable family life, as he employed the same three servants for over 30 years.

Much happened to the village during his tenure. In 1859 Baslow was a farming community but well supplied with tradesmen and shops but without industry. By 1907 it had developed into a thriving tourist destination backed by the huge Hydropathic hotel, and the building of new large houses for both villagers and commuters. Rev Stockdale build the grandest new house, Baslow Hall, with money left by his deceased wife Elizabeth, but died before he could move into it.

11 Rev John Farrer

*Rectangular black marble slab in a lighter base. Supporting the tablet which is incised with Roman lettering is a narrow shelf, also in black marble.

The Rev. JOHN FARRER
Twenty seven years
Minister of this place.
Who died august 31. 1794.

This tribute of filial affection
Was erected by his eldest son
Robert Farrer

The Rev John Farrer was born in 1732, came to Baslow in 1767 and was buried in the churchyard. His grave can be seen near the old bridge. His eldest son Robert, who erected this plaque, later became master at the Charity School at Stanton Ford. He is buried in the churchyard, down by the river near the old ford.

12 Tablet – Rev John Swift

Minister of this place
Who died Nov 4 1766
Aged 51 years

Of ANN his WIFE
Who died June 23 1793
Aged 73 years.

The Rev John Swift, took up his appointment in 1747 at the age of 31 years. Parish records show he had 5 children 1753 to 1761 so he must have married his wife Ann after his arrival in Baslow. He died young at he age of 51. There is no further record of him or his family.

13 Joseph A Hodgkiss

To the Glory of God and in loving memory of SERGT JO^S ARTHUR HODGKISS. M.M., R.F.A.
 Mortally wounded in action at Paschaendeale Ridge.

The Hodgkiss family lived at Hawthorne Dene opposite the Cavendish Hotel. Arthur's father was a mining engineer, and Arthur worked for him as an apprentice until the war broke out. He enlisted and joined the with the Royal Field Artillery.

14 Elizabeth Frost

Oval black marble tablet on a lighter base. The whole stands on two brackets. The gilt lettering is in Roman

Ht 117cm W 65cm

To
 The Memory of
 ELIZABETH FROST,
 Wife of Matthew Frost
 Of Hassop, formerly of Calver,
 Who died the 7th day of January 1791;
 Aged 34 Years.
 She was the second daughter
 Of Richard and Mary Oddy, of Bubnell Hall
 Also of the above named
 MATTHEW FROST,
 who died May 26th 1835;
 Aged 80 years.

The Frosts were a prominent local family with connections in Baslow, Calver and Hassop. Matthew was the Barmaster for the area, a senior official appointed by the lead miners themselves and responsible for supervising and policing the industry. Other family members were also surveyors. The size of his tomb outside the church suggests that he was well off, and the number of memorials elsewhere hints that he was an influential member of the community.

15 Richard Oddy

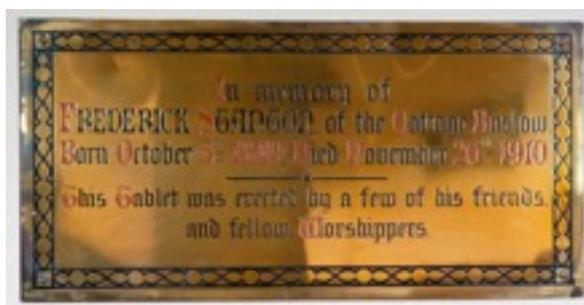

*Brass tablet on a wooden Mount. Above the inscription, which is in Roman and script lettering, is a skull and crossbones and coffin lid containing the letters R.O.

Of RICH^d ODDY of Bubnell , Gate-
Smith who departed this Life
May 21 1753 aged 74
Upright he was and Faithful to his Friends
Religious too and so he took his End

Early members of the Oddy family were blacksmiths who did work on royal palaces in London and were also employed in the late 1600s by the 1st Duke of Devonshire.

Richard Oddy a “Gatesmith” was in the same trade and almost certainly worked at Chatsworth, possibly taking over from his father. In 1715 he married the widow of another Chatsworth blacksmith, John Gardom of Baslow. He settled down in Bubnell House, a substantial dwelling with a large farm attached. Later the family moved into Bubnell Hall.

16 Frederick Stanton

*Rectangular brass tablet with an incised border. Gothic and Lombardic lettering with rusticated capitals.
Ht 30cm w 62cm*

In Memory of
FREDERICK STANTON of the Cottage Baslow
Born Oct 5th 1849 Died November 26th 1910
This Tablet was erected by few of his friends
And fellow worshippers.

Frederick Stanton had been a judge who retired to “The Cottage” in School Lane. He must have contributed well to the church for this memorial to have been erected.

The house had been built in the 1830s by Nicholas Broomhead, farmer and innkeeper of the Peacock (now the Cavendish Hotel). For years it was the most prestigious house in Baslow, second only to Bubnell Hall which itself had been occupied by Broomheads in the late 1600s. He must have had a sense of humour to have called it the Cottage. The name unfortunately was changed many years ago.

17 Eric B Burdekin

*Rectangular brass tablet with black incised Roman and italic letters.
Ht 35cm w 36cm*

To the Glory of God
And to the dear memory of
GEOFFREY ERIC BURDEKIN
2nd Lieutenant
3rd Battalion Sherwood Foresters who was killed in action
at Beuvry France
26th January 1915 aged 22

"Who dies if England live?"

Erik Burdekin was living at home and learning to be a solicitor like his father when the war broke out. He had been educated at Rugby and Woolwich, and had already spent two years in the army before resigning for health reasons. He volunteered again and had no difficulty in getting a commission in the Sherwood Foresters

18 Tablet In Porch

Lead tablet within a wooden frame.

JOHN FARRER Minister
JOHN GRUNDY - Church
THOMAS BROOMHEAD - Wardens.
N BROOMHEAD Plumber
1785

This unusual plaque is in the porch, on the left when entering the church. It is inscribed on lead.

Lead mining was a major industry in the White Peak west of the river Derwent. Much of the lead smelting was done on the hills east of the river, especially in parishes near to Baslow. Several Baslow families profited from the industry, including the Froggatts, the Broomheads, and possibly also the Grundys.

Nicholas Broomhead later became publican at the Peacock Hotel (now the Cavendish).

These Charity Boards, are in the dark corner at the rear of the church opposite the entrance. The top two were erected in 1720 at a cost of 5 shillings.

The text described donations, sometimes in land, made to the Curate, the Poor and the School (the Charity School at Stanton Ford)

Some of the funds, including the early ones, have survived as "The Baslow Charities". The Trustees still meet annually to distribute money to the Baslow and Curbar Schools, and the other original recipients.
